

Collaborative provision leads to an award, or to specific credit towards an award, of DMU delivered and/or supported and/or assessed through an arrangement with a partner organisation. In determining which provision falls within the scope of collaborative provision, the critical factor is whether the achievement of the learning outcomes for the module or programme are dependent on the arrangement made with the other delivery or support organisation(s). UK Quality Code for HE, Chapter B10

There are various models of activity within the University's current framework for collaborative provision categorised into three elements according to activity type and risk: Academic Partnerships, Recruitment Partnerships and Student Mobility Partnerships.

| ValidationService                    | Validation Service provision is where the University does not have provision in the same cognate area or where there is related provision but the Faculty(ies) concerned do not wish to collaborate but the University is still willing to validate. Programmes do not form part of Faculty academic provision, but are delivered and assessed in UK collaborating institutions. Educational Partnerships (EP) have responsibility to oversee the effectiveness of the operation of the validated provision. Planning, validation and review (including quality assurance and improvement) activity is also managed centrally by EP. | High                | Yes              | Yes                                | Yes                  | Yes    | Yes      | EP                                 |
| Modulesdelivered incollaboration | Students have the opportunity to study for individual modules at another institution, and to bring back credits which contribute to a DMU award. These arrangements normally operate where there is sector agreement to benefit from economies of scale for the delivery of specialist clinical subjects. (For example, Cardiology and Respiratory Physiology specialist option modules.)  | High/Medium | Yes              | Yes                                | Yes                  | Yes    | Yes      | EP/GPU                             |
| SupportedDistancelearning        | Supported Distance Learning (SDL) involves use of a partner institution's premises and facilities to provide academic, technical or pastoral support to students by staff employed by the partner institution. The partner is not involved in teaching or assessing students in SDL models. In cases where the achievement of the learning outcomes for the module and/or programme is dependent on the involvement of partners in teaching or assessment of distance learning this is classed as faculty based collaborative provision or validation service.   | High/Medium | Yes              | Yes                                | Yes                  | Yes    | Yes      | EP/GPU                             |
| Accreditation                            | Accreditation involves DMU mapping a partner's curriculum to assure the level and quality of the award. These arrangements are usually documented formally but do not constitute a DMU award upon exit. The accreditation process ensures that certification practices are acceptable, typically meaning that they are competent to test and certify third parties alongside employing appropriate quality assurance mechanisms.   | Medium/Low      | Yes              | No                                 | No                   | Yes    | Yes      | EP/GPU                             |
